

Funny online office supplies comic strip

Contributed by JJewell

I recently came across this website, the office supplies comic strip, which is created and maintained by Lola Akinmade. She uses office supplies as characters to make hilarious commentaries on everyday events in the workplace. I especially liked the one called "Flat Screen Harassment." It depicts a keyboard and a flat screen monitor and the keyboard makes a comment about how skinny the monitors are getting these days. The monitor then accuses the keyboard of sexual harassment. There is an army of helmeted markers, memo reading computer diskettes and an obituary for a stapler. It makes for a very funny read, and I recommend it for anyone looking for something a little different.